SEMINAR OUTLINE

Long COVID / post-COVID syndrome is an emerging condition and one about which we are continuing to learn more with ever-increasing exposure to affected patients.

This seminar will provide information about how the medium and long-term effects of Covid-19 are understood to manifest in different body systems.

Key issues that will be covered are:

- How both the virus and the vaccine breach barrier systems in the body
- Understanding what is happening and how to diagnose it
- Treating gut barrier and blood brain barrier breaches
- The effects of the vaccine on the cardiometabolic system
- How long covid overlaps with Mast Cell Activation Syndrome (MCAS) and what to do about it
- Dr Leo Galland's approach to Long Covid and how to relate that to AK
- Viral reactivation from SARS-Cov-2 and treatment protocols
- The importance of the Vagus Nerve and how to enhance function
- Neuroinflammation to Neurotoxicity

The weekend will aim to bring together all the latest research on the long-term effects of both covid infection and gene therapy vaccinations and present it in a manner that will allow you to apply it in a clinically useful way.

The weekend will involve muscle testing and requires basic knowledge in Applied Kinesiology techniques and concepts.

There will be practical sessions throughout the weekend to cover the treatment procedures that you will learn.
